17.20.030 District area, height, placement, and general regulations.

17.20.040 Additional regulations, interpretations and exceptions.

17.20.010 General intent of zoning districts. The intent of each zoning district is as follows:

17.20.010

A. The A-1 agricultural district is intended to protect and preserve the high quality of agricultural land in the extraterritorial area from the intrusion of urban and nonagricultural uses which would contribute to the termination of agricultural pursuits which would be inconsistent with the highest and best potential of the land and to protect prime agricultural land.

B. The A-2 conservation-floodplain district is intended to protect and preserve certain lands which are subject to flooding or erosion and land that is heavily wooded or of such topographic character that extensive human habitation is unwise or imprudent; and which, if preserved as open space recreational areas, will provide shelter to wildlife and will prevent further erosion and damage from flooding. The district is also intended to preserve and protect public land for current and future use.

C. The R-1 low-density single-family district is intended to protect and preserve the residential character of certain portions of the community, which are now or which are planned as low-density single-family residential uses.

D. The R-2 single-family residential district, while allowing and protecting single-family usage in certain portions of the community, allows for a smaller lot size. In keeping with the housing industry development desires for single-family residential development.

E. The R-3 one and two family residential district is intended to preserve the higher lot density of older single-family residential structures while providing for the development of two-family residential usage in certain portions of the community.

F. The R-4 multifamily residential district is intended as a means to allow higher density multiple-family developments as needed for the complete development of housing types in the community.

G. The R-5 mobile home district allows for the development of organized mobile home parks in locations deemed to be appropriate for such use in the community.

H. The B-1 general business district is intended to provide development in line with the consumer needs of the community and its service area while preserving the existing central business and commercial area of the community.

I. The B-2 highway commercial district is intended to provide areas for commercial establishments, which relate to high volume of vehicle traffic and parking use.

J. The M-1 industrial district is established to provide for light manufacturing, storage and similar industrial uses compatible with the needs, character and economic development of the community.

17.20.020 Permitted principal uses and special uses. Table 1, Table of Permitted Principal uses and Special Uses, lists the types of principal land use permitted in Each zoning district and those uses for which a special Use permit must be obtained as outlined in Chapter 17.48 Table 1, in its entirety, is located at the end of this Chapter.

17.20.030 District are, height, placement and general regulations. Table 2, Schedule of Area, Height, Placement and General Regulations by District, lists the primary standards and regulations of this title by zoning district. Table 2, in its entirety, is located at the end of this chapter.
